

Mike Carr, a native of Cleveland MS practices with his wife, Jessica Carr, at Carr Law Firm where they work in criminal defense.

Mike works in a mix of retained cases and appointed public defender cases in an 8 county radius, and has tried 83 felony criminal jury trials in state and federal court as lead counsel to date. Mike is a contract attorney for the Police Benevolent Association, JULIAN international civil rights firm, and the Mississippi Center for the Prevention of Violence, where he represents women and minors who are victims of human trafficking charged with felony crimes. Mike also serves as an adjunct professor at Delta State University; teaching Constitutional law and Criminal Law at night.

Just this month, Mike, along with Jessica, Matthew Dalton, Graham Carner, Carlos Tanner, Aafram Sellers, Keveon Taylor, Kathryn McNair, and Michael Reed formed the Criminal Defense section of the Mississippi Bar which was approved April 4 by the Board of Bar Commissioners. (So when you pay your Bar Dues in August, please consider selecting to be a member of that section.)
